

Malaysian Private Entities Reporting Standard (MPERS) – An overview and the business implications

20 – 21 April 2017 (Thursday & Friday), DoubleTree by Hilton, Johor Bahru

Malaysian Private Entity Reporting Standards (MPERS) – An overview and the business implications

Gain a concise overview and focused business implications on what the Malaysian Private Entity Reporting Standards (MPERS) means for your business. Develop a way of thinking about financial decision-making that encourages both critical thinking and organised, efficient digestion of financial information.

The MPERS are official pronouncements issued by the MASB in respect of its application in Malaysia. This programme's emphasis will be on common and significant matters encountered in the daily application of MPERS. This will be covered with the viewpoints of practitioners from commerce and industry who encountered difficulties, quirks, and exceptions in their application of the MPERS.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

This programme aims to provide participants with:

- A broad overview of MPERS and the business implications of implementing the standards
- A clear understanding of the accounting principles and concepts of major MPERS
- An understanding of the requirements of the Standard by using case studies and analytical papers

METHODOLOGY

Harvard Business School's case study methodology, group discussion, powerpoint presentation and quote.
